Electric Guitar,
Acoustic Guitar,
Bass, & Music Theory

Don Love has been performing music since he was a little boy. Born into a musical family, he grew up traveling around the U.S. writing songs, singing, and performing music with his parents and siblings.

He is skilled in acoustic guitar, electric guitar, bass guitar, piano, drums, harmonica, and songwriting. As a teenager, Don started teaching guitar when he was employed at a music store. From the start, he loved seeing his students take personal pride and pleasure in their accomplishments as they discovered the joy of music.

Through this early experience and for the past 22 years, he became the hands-on instructor he is today. He takes the time to thoroughly explain the technique and the fundamentals of playing an instrument.

Don is also a music producer and says that knowing how to play different instruments comes in handy when recording and mixing music. "I'll sit down at the piano or pick up a guitar, and I can hear what I need to play. It really is effortless."

Although he is a multi-instrumentalist, the guitar is his preferred instrument and teaches how to play in most music genres styles such as Pop, Soul, Rap, Gospel, Rock, Country, Contemporary Christian, and Rock. To him, music is a way of expression and he brings this into his lessons making sure that the same passion passes onto his students.

Currently, he is active at his local Church worship team playing the electric guitar & bass guitar and has had the opportunity to travel around the U.S, South Africa, and Canada doing what he loves.
